The climbing rhythm is managed by an efficient electromagnetic braking system, this allows the exercise to be modulated by adapting the cardiovascular impact to the real needs of the user.

The climbing rate ranges from 24 to 164 steps per minute and can be modulated through the controls on the console .

Comfort is given by the possibility of having 3 large steps (55 x 23.5 x 20.5 cm) simultaneously active (the circuit is made up of 16 platforms, 3 of which are simultaneously active on the working front).

45° rising diagonal . The safety sensors near the last platform guarantee the anti-fall function by blocking the machine if the user is unable to follow the set cadence.
